Improving Community Infrastructure by Promoting Financial Stability and Independence

United Way of York County's 88th Annual Meeting Emphasizes Financial Stability Partnerships

YORK, PA (June 8, 2009) – United Way of York County will host its 88th Annual Meeting at the Yorktowne Hotel on June 15, 2009 from 5:00 – 7:00 p.m. The purpose of this meeting is to inform the community about United Way's impact on community issues.

Volunteers, corporate and community partners will be recognized with distinguished service awards. The featured speaker will be Josephine Bias Robinson, Vice President of Income-Community Impact for United Way of America. Ms. Robinson previously worked in the White House as the Executive Assistant to the Chief of Staff, Andrew H. Card, Jr., and in the United States Senate for the Joint Economic Committee, chaired by former Senator Connie Mack. Ms. Robinson's presentation will address the business framework for United Way's role in promoting financial independence and stability.

According to Robert J. Woods, Executive Director of United Way of York County, "Ms. Robinson's comments will be very timely. For the past four years, United Way of York County has been organizing a Financial Stability Partnership with several community organizations. We are eager to learn about 'best practices' utilized by other communities and how the United Way of America can be of assistance."

Giving to community organizations that provide help for those in need and advocating the importance of this need through volunteerism are what United Way of York County's values are all about: Give, Advocate, Volunteer.
